Key messages

Supporting healthcare workers

- It's everyone's responsibility to support essential healthcare workers – such as doctors and nurses – to stay at work during the coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak.
- Healthcare workers may need extra help to ensure their children have care so they can work during this period.
- Where possible, partners of essential healthcare workers – who are not healthcare workers themselves – should support them to continue working by taking care of children.
- Older people – such as grandparents – and other at-risk groups should not be engaged as carers to reduce their risk of infection.
- Victoria will expand its dedicated contact tracing services. From 26 March messages to close contacts will be sent via a new platform called Whispr, which will require the person to respond back to the contact tracing team confirming they are self-isolating at home.
- Any healthcare or residential aged care worker with a fever or respiratory symptoms should be tested.
- The government is encouraging the community to limit their day-to-day activities outside their homes.
- Additional personal protective equipment and testing equipment are due to arrive in the coming weeks.

New Orders for Pharmacists and Prescription medications

- Two public health emergency orders came into effect on 26 March and can be found here: <http://www.gazette.vic.gov.au/gazette/Gazettes2020/GG2020S158.pdf>
 - Pharmacists can supply prescription medications without a prescription for one month in emergency circumstances except for Schedule 8 medicines.
 - Doctors prescribing Schedule 8 medicines for non-drug dependent patients will not be required to apply for a Schedule 8 treatment permit for the next six months, but instead check SafeScript.
 - Practitioners will need to apply for Schedule 8 treatment permits for drug dependent patients, including opioid replacement therapy.
- During the pandemic health practitioners should take all reasonable steps to access SafeScript, as it is a very effective in providing up-to-date information about a patient's prescribing and dispensing history.
