Businesses

The Isle of Man has announced that, as of Friday 24 April, some limited sectors may return to work but only where it is possible for them to do so whilst adhering to strict social distancing guidelines.

These businesses are:

- Any construction business.
- Any business of a tradesperson, including and not limited to plumbers, electricians, carpenters, heating, gas or air condition engineers; roofers and general builders.
- Any business of landscaping, gardening or related activity.
- It is important that any return to work must be done within social distancing guidelines, which means workers should remain a minimum of 2 metres away from customers and other staff members at all times.

For all businesses that have not been mandated to close, employers must take every possible step to facilitate their employees working from home, including providing suitable IT and equipment to enable remote working.

Businesses where working from home is not an option may be operational but must make sure strict social distancing and health guidelines are in place to protect workers.

Further information on this phased return to work can be found in the Chief Minister's statement.

Stay at home requirement

It's important that everyone plays their part in reducing the spread of coronavirus in the Isle of Man.

This means protecting yourself, others and our health service by making sensible choices about where you go and what you do. It's important that where you can, you stay home as much as possible.

When we reduce our day-to-day contact with other people, we will reduce the spread of the infection. That's why it's really important to continue to follow good social distancing habits.
